THREE CLOSE CALLS.

NARROW ESCAPES HAD BY WORKMEN
IN A PULP MILL.

One of Them Crushed to a Shapeless Mass Between Iron Rollers—Another Whirled Around on a Belt—Thrilling Experience With a Log Jam.

"I never hear of persons narrowly escaping death or surviving extraordinary injuries," said the New York representative of a big pulp mill company, "that I do not think of some remarkable instances of the kind that have occurred at one of our mills in the northern part of this state. On one occasion a workman named Wolf was engaged in cleaning a machine used at a certain stage in the process of pulp manufacture. The principal feature of this machine was two very heavy iron rollers—one above the other. When in operation, the upper roller was pressed closely down on the lower one, and the revolved in opposite directions. To clean these rollers the upper one was raised seven or eight inches, the machine of course being at rest.

"In the course of his work Wolf, who was a young German, thrust his head and shoulders between the rollers to see better to clean the lower roller. While he was in that position some careless person turned on the water power. The rollers started at once, and before the alarm could be given and the water turned off Wolf was drawn clear through between the rollers and dropped on the other side, as much like pulp, so far as appearance went, as anything could be. It happened to be in that part of the mill at the time and saw the frightful mishap.

"I ran to where the limp form of the workman lay and dispatched a messenger at once for a doctor, merely as a matter of form, however, for that anything could be done for the shapeless mass of humanity never entered my mind. It was impossible to lift the body. We shuffled it on to a blanket and carried it to the unfortunate man's home. I noticed that, although there was not the slightest evidence of consciousness, Wolf was still breathing and that his heart was beating. When the doctor came, he declared that from the shoulders down there was positively not a single whole bone left in Wolf's body. He said there was not one chance in ten thousand of the man living.

"It would take ten doctors a week to set his bones," he said.
"He incised the body in plaster from the neck down, and when he came next day was amazed to find that Wolf was still alive and had regained consciousness. Wolf lay incased in plaster for several weeks. His bones knit and grew together again, but in such a way that when he was able to get around he was covered with knobs and ridges and queer corners and angles from head to foot. But he was alive. He was our night watchman for 10 years after that and is alive today.

"Another time a workman in a different part of the mill named Sanneman was caught in a big belt by a felt apron he wore, and before the works could be stopped he was whirled seven times around the pulleys, striking the ceiling with tremendous force each time. He was taken up for dead. I examined him before the doctor came, and there wasn't even the sign of an abrasion or mark on his body. Ten minutes later, when the doctor came, he was as black as coal all over. There wasn't a spot on him that was not discolored. The doctor examined the man carefully, and to his amazement found that there was not a bone broken anywhere about him. His injuries were so slight that he was at work again within two days. Yet he had passed seven times through a space between the pulley and the beam not over seven inches wide.

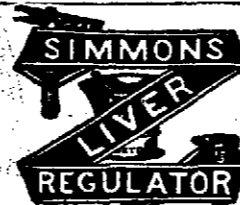

"Once the dam of one of our mills became so clogged with logs that they interfered with the water power. It was necessary to release the jam or shut down the mill. The work would necessarily endanger the lives and limbs of all who engaged in it, and volunteers were asked for, handsome extra pay being offered. Plenty of men were ready to take the risks, among them Pat O'Brien, an Irishman, 61 years old. He insisted on being one of the gang and joined it against the protest of the superintendent.

"The work of releasing the log jam went all right until the key log that held the main jam was to be removed. There lay the danger. The log was removed, and the men made a wild dash to escape the rush. They all got out of the way but four, among them the old Irishman, Pat O'Brien. These four were caught among the logs and went over the falls, a never decent 60 feet. Men and logs went over together, and everybody expected that the men would be ground to atoms. But a most astonishing thing happened. In falling a number of logs fell on end in a group, their upper ends toppling together, forming an almost perfect tent, or peaked hut, with the down stream side open. The men had escaped injury, not only from the logs in the fall, but from the tremendous plunge itself, and it was as they landed in the water below that the tent of logs formed with them, beneath its shelter. This saved them from being drowned by the water that plunged down from the great height.

"There was constant danger of the shelter of logs being forced from its lodgment by the pressure of water. In view of the latter danger, when it came to rescuing them, the three young men of the party urged old Pat O'Brien to be hauled up first. He obstinately refused to be hauled up until his companions had been rescued, when he took his chance and was landed safely above. He had scarcely been lifted above the shelter of the logs when it gave away, and the logs went crashing and thundering on down the stream. I have heard of wonderful escapes of death, but never anything so wonderful as that."—New York Sun.

WHAT TO DO WITH NEVADA.

How to deal with Nevada? is a question that is receiving more or less attention throughout the country. A proposition made in the House of Representatives to increase its population and property by the annexation of Utah did not receive favorable consideration in that body and it does not seem to meet the approval of Nevadans. Now comes the San Francisco Chronicle with the suggestion that the problems of admitting Utah to Statehood and enabling Nevada to maintain a State government be solved at once by annexing Utah to Nevada. "The State thus increased," it argues, "would have population enough to support a State government with ease, while the people of Utah have all the rights they could acquire by the admission of the present Territory as a State, the only difference being that they would be citizens of the State of Nevada instead of the State of Utah." The Chronicle thinks the project is worthy of discussion, for if Utah should become a State it would then be too late to talk about annexation.

Much could be said in favor of and against annexation, but not necessarily the annexation of Utah to Nevada. As has been repeatedly stated in the JOURNAL, the union of the State and Territory would, the moment the Constitution could be amended, make Western Nevada an outlying settlement of the new State. The capital and all State institutions, including the University, as well as the Federal Courts and officials would be removed to Ogden or Salt Lake city, 600 miles away.

As suggestions as to the best way to dispose of Nevada are in order, why not divide California on an east and west line and extend the line east to Utah, attaching Northern Nevada to Northern California and make Southern Nevada and Southern California one? It is admitted that the division of California is inevitable and its consummation only a question of a few years. Already the preliminary arrangements for a separation have been made and meetings have been held in the southern counties to discuss ways and means for carrying the project into effect. The people of Western Nevada are more closely identified with California than with Utah. There are several California counties east of the Sierra Nevada whose interests are identical with those of Nevada. Their products have to pass through Reno to reach a market and their people go through this town to reach the capital of their State. Why not then, so long as the division of California is not only possible but probable, extend the division line through Nevada and settle the question in a way that would be more satisfactory to those immediately concerned than by annexing Utah to Nevada?

If the East would deal fairly with Nevada it would be amply able to take care of itself. It has vast and varied undeveloped resources. Its valleys are fertile and, where irrigated, as productive as any in the temperate zone. Its mountains abound in gold, silver, copper, nickel, lead, antimony and iron ores, and its deserts contain deposits of sulphur, salt, borax and soda. Its climate is the most salubrious, and it can boast of more sunshine in a year than any State in the Union. It has made many millionaires and beyond doubt will make many more. Anarchy does not thrive within its confines and notwithstanding the harsh treatment it has been subjected to by the law-making power there is less suffering for the necessities of life among its people than in the communities which for selfish purposes have endeavored to crush its principal industry. True, its population, compared with many of the older States, is small, but the day is not far distant when it will be materially increased. The State owes nothing to outsiders and if its people are compelled by adverse legislation to surrender Statehood they should be given the privilege of choosing whether they shall be annexed to Utah or California.

NATIONAL BANK NOTES AND SILVER CERTIFICATES.

One of the largest National Banks of Boston refused to accept National bank notes or silver certificates in payment of a draft mainly because the bills were of small denomination. As silver certificates are not a legal tender between private individuals, it was proposed to substitute silver dollars for the same, but it was insisted that the bank was obliged to take the National bank notes. The matter was appealed to the Comptroller of the Currency, who at first sustained the bank in its refusal, but subsequently reversed his decision when the law was quoted. Section 5196 of the Revised Statutes says: "Every National Banking Association formed or existing under this title shall take and receive at par for any debt or liability to it any and all notes or bills issued by any lawfully organized National Banking Association." This shows that National bank notes are a legal tender for debts due such banks, but that silver certificates are not. However, standard dollars, in which silver certificates are redeemable, are a legal tender for such debts.

Judge Cullen of the Supreme Court has signed an order to show cause why a stay of proceedings should not be granted in the case of Boss McKane and his associates, returnable Monday.

HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS.

The Situation Not Virtually Changed.

A TERRIFIC BOMBARDMENT.

The Spokane Water Works Injunction Suit Settled.

HAWAIIAN NEWS.

The Situation Not Changed on the Islands.

HONOLULU, December 9.—Although the situation is not virtually changed in the three days since the sailing of the steamer Oceanic several matters of more or less importance have transpired, and the latest diplomatic communications between Minister Willis and the provisional government have been secured by an Associated Press reporter.

On November 29th President Dole addressed a note to Minister Willis in which he stated that the provisional government had received notice from Minister Thurston of Secretary Gresham's letter. The provisional government wished to inquire first if it was correct; if so, it was intimated that it was due them to be informed as to what were the relations of the United States in relation to the recommendations of the Secretary of State.

On December 2d a reply was received by President Dole, in which Minister Willis stated in substance that he considered the letter of Secretary Gresham a domestic matter with which he (Willis) had nothing to do. It was his opinion, however, that President Cleveland would decide to furnish definite information and instructions as soon as he had received certain advice which has been transmitted to him. It was Minister Willis' opinion that President Cleveland would be able to come to a conclusion because he was anxious to have the Hawaiian trouble speedily settled.

A previous note had also been received from Minister Willis in which it was understood that he acquiesced in the notice served upon him that no troops should be landed from the United States men-of-war without the written consent of the provisional government.

On December 7th the executive and advisory councils of the government met to consider the question of investigating the conduct and loyalty of a number of employees known to be royalists or royalist sympathizers. The matter was taken up in open session before a large number of visitors, and resulted in the following resolutions, with but one dissenting voice:

"That is the opinion of this advisory council that the Executive should proceed upon an investigation as to the loyalty of all employees of this Government and the support given by them to it.

"That in the determination of the loyalty of the employees of the Government the standard shall include the active support of this Government and its purposes in the past."

The grounds upon which the advisory council based the necessity for their action are briefly summarized from F. M. Hatch's speech in their support as follows:

"We are in an anomalous condition. Though the existing and only government, we have been discredited in the eyes of the world by the utterances of Secretary Gresham, and we now have our work to do over again. We must now settle the question of restoration ourselves. The lady across the way still claims to be Queen, and appeals to a foreign power, the United States, to reinstate her. As long as this state of affairs continues we are in the midst of a conflict, and must keep in the employ of the Government only those whose loyalty is unquestioned. We can have no traitors in our midst. Nothing could be more demoralizing than the suspicion that when approaching a rendezvous in the executive building in a moment of danger treachery might be found there. One or two determined traitors could do immense damage under such circumstances."

French Freecatchers.

PARIS, December 16.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Aveo, Socialist Deputy, protested against what he classed as "throttling discussion," and other Socialist Deputies denounced the alleged indecent haste with which measures were pushed through. Flaudin defended the projects as being a new defense for menaced society. Goblet proposed to send the Association bill to committee, but this was rejected by a vote of 407 to 132, and the bill was adopted by a vote of 464 to 39.

Terrific Bombardment.

New York, December 16.—A World special from Buenos Ayres says: Terrific bombardment is reported from Rio de Janeiro. Many persons in the city have been killed. No formal blockade of the port has been proclaimed, but on account of the incessant firing upon the Custom-houses, Marine Arsenal and the Quay des Mineiros it is impossible to land passengers or cargoes.

Spokane Water Works Injunction.

SPOKANE, Wash., December 16.—The water works injunction suit was settled to-day by Judges Moore, Buck and Arthur. The decision was that the city officials could not let the contract under the old bids, but they could re-advertise for bids or let the contract by day labor. This is one of the injunction suits which has caused so much trouble in Spokane, but the laboring men are now pleased with the results.

Telegraphic Notes.

Ex-Speaker Reed is preparing a minority report on the tariff bill.

Hon. James Black, the Prohibition candidate for President in 1872 is dead.

Charles Ozanne, a patient at the French Hospital, San Francisco, committed suicide yesterday by jumping from a third-story window.

General Datus E. Ocon was yesterday accidentally shot at San Diego, and it is very doubtful whether he will recover.

The Chicago Board of Trade has appointed a committee to devise a new system for speculative trading simpler to that now in use and less open to criticism.

In the Prendergrast murder trial yesterday, the prisoner's mother testified to the murderer's grandfather having been confined in a lunatic asylum, and Prendergrast's brother testified to the belief that he was insane.

The police surrounded a large Nihilist meeting in the outskirts of Moscow, Russia, yesterday, and a desperate battle resulted. Fifteen policemen were wounded, and five Nihilists, preferring death to capture, committed suicide. Fifty were captured and twenty-two escaped.

Revolting details of Ashantee, Africa, horrors are reported in London. Two hundred and seventeen people of both sexes were roasted to appease the Ashantee gods during the fetes in November. Labouchere taunts the missionary societies by saying, "How do you, societies of inaction, relish this dish of cooked Ashantees?"

SILVER MEN IN COUNCIL.

A conference of silver men is being held at Washington to devise methods for conducting the fight for free coinage. It is attended by Senators Jones and Stewart of Nevada, Generals Warner and Weaver, Sir Moreton Preven of England and several other distinguished advocates of free coinage. Speeches were made by Lecturer Whitehead of the National Grange and Senator Jones of Nevada. The latter, in reply to questions by Grand Master Sovereign of the Knights of Labor, said that when labor assisted in securing free coinage there should be reciprocity on the part of the silver men. The Senator contended that all labor questions were merged in the money question and its solution would settle them all. The speakers generally agreed that the money question should be made the paramount issue of all industrial organizations and that a united effort be made to carry the congressional elections next fall. Senator Jones thinks that a national party on these lines is among the probabilities and that the tendency of the conference is toward such an organization.

AT HAND

In a dangerous emergency, AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is prompt to act and sure to cure. A dose taken on the first symptoms of Croup or Bronchitis, checks further progress of these complaints. It softens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membrane, and induces sleep. As a remedy for colds, coughs, loss of voice, la grippe, pneumonia, and even consumption, in its early stages,

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

excels all similar preparations. It is endorsed by leading physicians, is agreeable to the taste, does not interfere with digestion, and needs to be taken usually in small doses. "From repeated tests in my own family, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has proved itself a very efficient remedy for colds, coughs, and the various disorders of the throat and lungs."—A. W. A GENTLE WOMAN

Wishes a toilet cream to promote that

Brilliant Transparency of the skin, which is the true beauty of the complexion. She values it to have the true fragrance of the flowers and the gentle tonic action of the healing balsams, which render the skin soft, white and beautiful without injury to it.

She values the refreshing, soothing effect of the best and simplest cosmetics blended into a perfect cream. She finds it in Cocoon Cream and will have no other.

She never uses the paints and face blushes which are so injurious to the skin.

COCOA BALM After shaving find Cocoon Cream most excellent.

COCOA WATER is the natural fragrance of flowers for the toilet and bath.

The Blues

Away with them! Take Simmons Liver Regulator for that torpid liver has put your digestive powers out of gear. That's at the bottom of the blues, and when you take Simmons Liver Regulator you strike the root of the evil, and everything else that is wrong goes with it. No more Indigestion, Dyspepsia or Biliousness. That sounds bright enough, and is true.

NEVADA RECORD SHOOT.

Adjutant General's Special Report.
HEADQUARTERS N. N. G.,
CARSON, Nevada, December 16, 1939.

Governor R. K. Colcord, Commander-in-Chief of the Nevada National Guard—Sir:

I have the honor to report on the Record Shoot for the year 1939.

General Order No. 7, issued October 24th, provided for a State Record Shoot to be held by each company on a day set by its commander during the period from the 20th to the 30th of November, inclusive, the shooting to be held in the open and in uniform.

The 26th day of November was set for each company. Our climate, while on the whole unexcelled, is fickle; and occasionally storms come at this season of the year, even here as they usually do elsewhere. It so happened that on this particular day the most severe storm of the season was at its height, and certainly affected the shooting of every company, except that of Company I, as to which there was no special report; but whose score indicates some serious difficulty. By personal inquiry I learned that in Tuscarora a heavy snow storm continued throughout the next day. In Winnemucca and Reno the downpour of rain was such that as the shooting progressed it became impossible to keep account of the scores, as the pasters were washed from the targets. When this occurred the supervising officers stopped the shooting for that day, and asked the Colonel of their regiment, who had discretionary powers in the matter, for further time. In each instance time was granted, and those present on that day, who had not yet shot, were allowed to shoot on another day set. In Carson a heavy and irregular wind, accompanied by rain continued all day, the official statement of the United States Weather Observer showing that the average wind velocity during six and one-half hours in which the fifty men made their 500 shots (using two targets part of the time) was 34 miles an hour, the extreme velocity 52 miles an hour, and the minimum 4 miles an hour. The Carson Guard had a hard struggle to maintain its supremacy on that day; but, while fortune, and some perhaps preventable incidents, were against it, it still leads, though with a reduced percentage.

In Virginia the wind was variable, and rain set in and continued during the closing hours. Men of Company A, in their enthusiasm, eager to make up in spirit what they lacked in numbers attending, were lying in the rain, though covered with overcoats, firing at the 500-yard target, as the darkness ended the day.

The showing of Company B is remarkable. With an attendance of 50 men, out of 67 on the September Muster-roll, and a score that places it third, and less than a point behind the first, it deserves especial credit for its marked improvement in this direction.

Company E of Tuscarora, for the first time in this line, advances toward its usual standard of excellence in other respects, and takes second place, within two-thirds of a point of first. The "points" in this and the preceding paragraph means an average point for a whole company.

Battery A presents the best individual score, 47, by M. H. Burke. George Cagwin of Company F comes second with 45.

On the whole the showing is excellent. This was the first State Record Shoot held in the open, and the first in which every company shot.

Following are the scores by companies, places being awarded on the scores at 200 yards only, at which all the companies could shoot. At some of the ranges the 500-yard target could not be seen on account of the storm. The scores reported at this distance are recorded for future reference:

other member, the Guard is now wrong. On this basis, the average of every member is 16 27-496, an improvement of more than 2½ points per man over last year's record. The average at 500 yards is 4 136-496, a very gain. The average total at the ranges is, therefore, 20 163-496, of

Including the Commander-in-Chief, the General, Field and Staff Officers, every other member, the Guard is now 496 strong. On this basis, the average score of every member is 16 27-496, an improvement of more than 2 1/2 points per man over last year's record. The average at 500 yards is 136-496, a very large gain. The average total at the two ranges is, therefore, 20 163-496, a possible 100.

Two hundred and fifty-one men (a gain of 8 over last year) actually shot at 200 yards. They made 7,963 points (a gain of 188) and averaged 31 182-251 (a gain of 56-251 of a point per man.) The gains at 500 yards were still greater.

The day was probably the worst on which a State Shoot was ever made in America; yet the record shows a distinct gain from every viewpoint. The riflemen of the Nevada National Guard have done good work.

Funeral of Captain Hamilton.
The funeral services over the late Captain Dora Hamilton will be held at the Salvation Army barracks to-day at 2 o'clock. She will be buried in Hillside Cemetery. The services will be conducted by "Happy Harry" and the "Swedish Nightingale," assisted by other members of the Army. All are invited to attend.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

A Contract Let for its Construction—The Style of Architecture.

Managing Director Yerington of the Nevada exhibit at the Midwinter Fair has contracted for the erection of the Nevada State building. The work will begin to-morrow and no time is to be lost in its construction, as it is to be finished by January 15th. It will be a two-story structure in the Italian style of architecture, planned for convenience and comfort, and it is the intention of those in charge of Nevada's interests at the Fair to manifest the hospitality for which the Silver State is noted. To that end, there will be large reception rooms for ladies and gentlemen on the second floor, with a roof garden and cafe above them. The entire lower floor, with the gallery surrounding it, will be devoted to the exhibit of Nevada's resources.

Wadsworth Notes.

Wadsworth is to have a new hall, gymnasium and press room in the Dispatch building that is now being erected. The recent epidemic of measles has had a deplorable effect on the public school attendance, but the worst is now over.

The young ladies of Wadsworth are organized into a club, designated as the "club of '92 and '93," for the assistance of the Union Church, and are giving some unique and enjoyable parties and entertainments. Their effort Friday night was particularly successful.

The White Horse miners continue to send in very favorable reports of their prospects, and all those who have worked on the claims or visited the district are boiling over with enthusiasm. Many beautiful specimens of auriferous rock have been brought into town. The owners of the various mines are vigorously pushing the work on their respective claims, notably on the Jim Blaine mine, the Royal and the Washoe Mining Company's property. Undoubtedly the near future will demonstrate the richness and importance of these mines. Their success means still better times for Wadsworth.

Mr. Brooks Improving.

It was reported here yesterday that L. Brooks, the cattle buyer, who was stricken with paralysis in Elko county last Sunday, was dead. N. H. A. Mason telegraphed H. Hayes, a partner of Mr. Brooks, if the report was true, and received the following reply:

EAST OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 16th
N. H. A. Mason, Reno.—Mr. Brooks improving; doctor says he will soon be around. He can now use his leg.

H. HAYES.

Prof. W. O. Pearce.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
